Sexual Problems Assessment and Treatment Service (SPATS)

Patient Information Leaflet

Wellbeing for life

What can we help with?

We can offer support for anyone experiencing sexual pain.

We can offer support for people experiencing the following sexual difficulties:

- Erection difficulties
- Early or delayed ejaculation
- Low desire or libido
- Difficulties with orgasms

ONLY IF they are connected to one of the following:

- An STI (including HIV, HSV, HPV)
- Fear of an STI, or being at increased risk of acquiring an STI (including having difficulties using condoms).
- Sexual assault, gender-based violence or pregnancy or fertility concerns

What can we do?

We offer medical and psychological assessment, advice and interventions to help you understand your sexual difficulties, rebuild your sexual confidence and find practical ways towards your preferred sex-life.

We draw from research and our clinical experience about what we know can help to resolve sexual problems.

How do I access the service?

You can book a general sexual health appointment at one of our clinics by calling 020 3317 5252 or online at: www.sexualhealth.cnl.nhs.uk

During this appointment, you can request a referral to the SPATS service. If it is decided that SPATS is the most helpful service for you, you will be referred to the SPATS service.

A member of the SPATS team will then contact you to book your initial SPATS triage assessment appointment.

Is there a wait for appointments?

You will usually be offered a SPATS triage assessment appointment within 4 weeks.

In the meantime you can access our range of self-help Better Sex Booklets here: www.sexualhealth.cnwl.nhs.uk/useful-leaflets-and-links/

Your SPATS triage appointment

Your SPATS triage appointment will take place remotely, via telephone or video call.

You will be sent a questionnaire to complete ahead of your appointment which will help us provide the best care for you.

If you need to cancel or rearrange your SPATS triage appointment, please contact us.

Contact us
