Private and self-funded organisations:

Professionals working in the field of sexual health and psychosexual difficulties can be:

- Clinical Psychologists specialising in sexual difficulties
- Psychosexual therapists or counsellors
- Medical doctors specialising in sexual difficulties

Best practice guidelines (including the type of assessment that should be carried out, and the latest evidence for which interventions are effective for sexual difficulties) can be found at:

<https://www.bashh.org/bashh-groups/special-interest-groups/sexual-dysfunction/>

These guidelines recommend ensuring a full physical assessment has been completed prior to beginning a psychological approach, as some sexual difficulties can have a physical cause or component.
